Sexuality: Have We Crossed The Lines?

Development, Function & Expression of Healthy Sexuality

Just what exactly is sexuality? What is its function and what constitutes healthy and unhealthy sexuality? In today's society, values like abstinence, virginity, and celibacy have become outdated and replaced by liberal views of promiscuity, pre- and extramarital affairs and other modern sexual norms. What's more, same-sex relationships, transgenderism and a myriad of sexual diversities have become not only acceptable but celebrated. Are we truly sexually liberated, or have we simply crossed the lines?

This seminar examines the issues and explores the development, function and expression of human sexuality. Hear diverse viewpoints that include the medical, psychological, sociological, spiritual and christian perspectives. True-life stories will be shared by a team of speakers who will uncover deep personal experiences and insights gained from having dealt with sexual brokenness in their lives. Topics include:

- Learning to love and trust again after a devastating adulterous affair in our marriage
- A man who almost became a woman
- Surviving emotional dependency from a woman's point of view
- Man loving another man: What is legitimate and what isn't
- Sexpressions: Or how sex is expressed

Don't miss this incredible opportunity to hear and experience real-life stories of hope, change and restoration. Presented by Liberty League, a community service organisation that promotes life and gender wellness to the individual, family and society.
